NEW HOIST INSTALLED BRUSH CREEK WESTERN MERGER SHIPS HIGHGRADE

A new electric hoist is being installed in the shaft at the Brush creek mine to replace the old equipment. The old works are being retimbered throughout and milling operations which have been discontinued during the hoist installation will be resumed within a few days.

The five stamp mill has been dropping for two shifts and this will be followed as soon as resumed. The report published in a paper that a 20 stamp mill is being contemplated is entirely erroneous, according to Superintendent William Litchenberg, who was in Nevada City on business Saturday. He was reported as having made the statement which was relayed by the grapvine route until it got into print. The present mill is entirely adequate until a larger area of ore reserves has been blocked out.

The ledge matter in which the drift is being run is averaging 16 feet in width between walls and shows good chimneys of mineralization which assay high. The entire ledge is good milling rock throughout and wil be sent through the stamps.

The steady climb of Western Merger on the San Francisco Mining Exchange is fast becoming the talk of the mining industry and a great deal of attention is being drawn to Nevada City's newest producing gold property. Stock sales have been running from 12 to 16 cents the past week with the stock being gobbled up as fast as any is being offered.

It is noteworthy that a number of local people who have been stock investors have been picking up the stock for investment purposes and it is commendable that local people are willing to show faith in a local enterprise. There is no doubt but what the stock will continue to climb as the property gets under full production and the stock will be much valued for its earning power.

Drifting operations are continuing steadily and the ore continues in strong values in all the faces. A shipment of heavy sulphide ore is to be made shortly to the Selby smelting works for treatment.

The stamps are dropping continuously. The first clean up was made after a few days' run for tests and showed a good bunch of amalgam. The ore is said to be averaging $20 to $30 per ton and with the large reserves already blocked out a profitable production record is in the making.

PROOFS OF LABOR ARE FILED WITH RECORDER

The following proofs of labor on mining claims have been filed with County Recorder Sam J. Clark the past week:

Charles J. Lyser has located the North Asbestos claim in the Washington Mining District in the NW¼, Sec. 12, T17, R10E.

LINUS FOLEY PASSES

The sad passing of young Linus Foley, the 11 year old son of Mrs. J. M. Foley, on Thursday afternoon, has cast a pall over this community as no other occurrence. Spinal meningitis was ascribed as cause of death and the youngster was sick but a few days. The sympathy of the townspeople has been feelingly expressed to the bereaved family.

Linus was born May 11th, 1917 and was one of a family of six children. His genial nature endeared him to every one and his untimely death brings to an end, a promising life. Surviving are the devoted mother, two sisters, Romayne and Deynes Foley, and three brothers, Vincent, Elzear and Ursil, the latter of Oakland.

He was taken ill Tuesday but his situation did not appear alarming until the next day when Dr. A. H. Tickell was summoned and he diagnosed the case as spinal meningitis. Everything possible was done to save his life, but to no avail.

Owing to the nature of the disease, the funeral services were strictly private and confined to members of the family.

SPECIAL MUSICAL PROGRAM AT HIGH SCHOOL, MAY 31st

On Thursday of next week at 3:00 p. m. at the Nevada City High School there will be a lecture and special musical program under the aushpices of Sherman Clay of Sacramento. Mr G. Lloyd Taylor will lecture on All Kinds of Music for All Kinds of People. Miss R. Francisco will render several musical selections following the lecture.

The program comes to the community as a recognition of the work done in music through the Nevada City schoolsfi The public is invited and urged to attend and there will be no admission charge. These entertainers come highly recommended and a treat is in store for those who avail themselves of this opportunity.

MICHAEL F. ENRIGHT PASSES AT SAN JOSE

There passed away at San Jose May 8th at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Kinne, Michael F. Enright at the age of 90 years and 4 months, a native of county Limerick Ireland. Mike as he was familiarly called came to the United States at an early day; then to the town of Little York, a prosperous hydraulic town. Mike was an expert with a hydraulic nozzle and for years was in the employ of the Little York Gold Washing & Water Company and years lived at Little York, Lowell Hill and You Bet.

A man whose heart was as big as his hand and many who were boys and girls at Little York will regret the passing of this sturdy Irishman, who gave them many a bag of candy.

Mrs. Niles Searls, executive secretary of Oakland Camp Fire Girls, has spent some time here this week in regard to commencement of work at Camp Celio. G. W. Isham of Woodland will have charge of construction work at Camp Celio.

Ellsworth Colley of Tudor spent the week-end here with his father, J. F. Colley.

Mrs. James Dillon has had as a guest, her cousin, Marshal Geiselman, a noted organist of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Rogers also visited Mr. Geiselman at the Dillon home. Mrs. Mary Hicks came up with the famous organist and visited her daughter in this city.

Mrs. P. O. Strandberg is in San Francisco on a few days' visit.

Miss Romaine Foley has returned from school at University of Nevada and will spend her vacation with her mother and brothers and sister.

Gen. W. S. Schuyler arrived Tuesday from Carmel on his way to the Sierra Mine at Pike City.

F. W. Yost has returned from a stay at Sierra City.

Miss Elizabeth Janes, who has been quite ill is able to be about which is good news to her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reynolds are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. William Menhennett of Mesa, Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Cassidy and daughter, Miss Beatrice, are home after a visit at Santa Clara.

J. F. Owens of Forest was in this city Wednesday on his way to his ranch in the lower country.

CLEAN UP DAYS SET FOR MAY 25 29 BY CHAMBER

A number of matters came up for discussion before the Chamber of Commerce at the special meeting on Friday night. It was decided to have a committee prepare the city auto park for its summer run and such committee headed by Charles W. Leiter and M. D. Coughlin and O. D. Woodman as the other members will start functioning this week. Ways and means of keeping down the previous large overhead are to be threshed out by the committee.

Clean Up Week was brought up by Mrs. Charles W. Leiter, president of the Nevada City Womans' Improvement Club and the dates were set for May 23 to 29 and the Chamber voted its hearty endorsement of the project. The matter will be brought up before the city trustees who are expected to take formal action endorsing the move. Property owners are expected to clean up their yards and premises and make them thoroughly presentable for Memorial Day Trucks will be provided for hauling away the grass and debris.

The welcome arch matter has been left in abeyance due to the large cost of installation and upkeep. The three A will be asked to put up better direction signs at Auburn for the Yuba Pass Highway. It was suggested that garbage boxes be placed about the business district. The new booklets which are now on the press are to be delivered in a few days for distribution.

ORDINANCES ARE PASSED BY THE CITY TRUSTEES

The board of city trustees are getting their municipal machine in good running order since the recent election and much legislation is now pending designed to benefit Nevada City. At the monthly meeting held Thursday night, two ordinances were given their final reading and were passed to print. They will be found on page four of this issue.

The Pine street bridge over Deer Creek was closed to all traffic over three tons weight and this affects the street bus and Sacramento stages, who have been notified to use Sacramento street hereafter. It is expected that state engineers will be brought here later to make a thorough inspection of the bridge to see what it can safely stand but until such time heavy travel will have to keep off. The motion was made by Trustee Seaman and seconded by Trustee Bennetts and there was but one dissenting vote. Two extra signs are being put up to warn truck drivers.

Hereafter city bills will have to be presented the day previous to the regular meeting to be assured of payment on that date. This matter was brought up last year but it soon was left in the discard. A finance committee consisting of Trustees Bennetts, Seaman and Murchie will pass on all bills before being presented to the board. This will save considerable of the board's time at the meetings and is in line with progressive practice.

By the terms of the new ordinances passed, City Attorney Nilon will receive a yearly stipend of $200 hereafter instead of the $75 pittance.

Carnivals and tent shows will have to pay heavily for the privilege of separating the citizens from their stray coin, a license fee of $200 per quarter having been decided on. This will have the effect of keeping them out, which was intended by the board.

Water collections for the past month totalled $1261.50 while the NID water bill was but $25.60 due to the city water supply keeping in good shape.

The board will meet in adjourned session Wednesday night to pass on further legislation.

LARGE RUSH OF WORK CROWDING NUGGET OFFICE

Due to the large rush of job printing orders in this office, this issue of The Nugget is somewhat abbreviated in form and the indulgence of our readers is craved. The publisher has been putting in long hours the past few weeks in an endeavor to keep up with the mounting string of printing orders. With the Quill on the press the rush has somewhat lessened and it is hoped that The Nugget will be back on the regular beat next week.

MRS. ANDREWS INSTALLS NEW HEMSTITCHING MACHINE

Mrs. Ira Andrews whose dressmaking business has been increasing by leaps and bounds since she opened shop some months ago, has added a pleater and hemstitching machine to her equipment due to the large demand for that class of work and is now prepared to give excellent service. Her fine workmanship as been bringing her many satisfied customers.

SPENCEVILLE WILL SHIP OUT PAINT PIGMENTS

Construction work has been completed on the loading chute at Wheatland the past few days by the Spenceville Paint Company and ore shipments to the refinery at Patterson are under way.

The company has been running a crew of eight men at its Spenceville property. The ore is easily extracted and there is an immense supply ready for shipment. The ore is being trucked to Wheatland for shipment. Shipments will be around three cars a week.

LESS THAN 500 VOTERS PUT OVER BOND ISSUE

Less than 500 people voted favorably to increase the indebtedness of the Nevada Irrigation District by nearly three million dollars last Tuesday. The surprising feature of the election was that 20 per cent of the people were willing to assume a land tax in preference to the bond issue. It had been freely predicted that the vote would be eight or nine to one in the matter as a prospective land tax is not a plaesant thing to face. The directors are proceeding to call for bids for the purchase of bonds in the amount of $1,200,000 although it had been stated that but $884,000 would be sold to meet the deficit and provide much needde cash The directors are empowered, it is understood, to sell the bonds without state sanction if they wish but the price they will command in the market is not certain.

The hearing on the Placer county exclusion will be held on June 8th. The petition is for exclusion of 7,812 acres and attorney T. L. Chamberlain of Auburn expects to present petitions for an additional amount of at least 5,000 acres.

DIAMOND JUBILEE WILL BE CELEBRATED BY MADISON

Saturday night will mark the diamond jubilee celebration of the founding of Madison Lodge, F. and A. M. of Grass Valley which has reached its 75th year. The committee of arrangements under the chairmanship of Judge George L. Jones has prepared a special program for the occasion. A banquet will be served the grand officers and members of Madison and Nevada Lodgse at the Bret Harte followed by appropriate ceremonies in the evening. The grand officers will be formally welcomed by Madison Lodge in the afternoon.

LEE LEITER CELEBRATING FOURTH STORE ANNIVERSARY

S. Lee Leiter is celebrating the fourth anniversary of the founding o this Gras Valley store with a big sale which commenced today in that store and which wll attract many thrifty buyers. Mr. Leiter in his many years of business in this section has many made many warm friends by his merchandising methods.

Sheriff George R. Carter went to Los Angeles today to appear at the trial of George Fry and Babe Cruse who were picked up here charged with the theft of a car.

Gene Williams of Grass Valley was picked up yesterday by Traffic Officer Joe Blake, alleged to have been driving a car while under the influence of liquor. Charges will be filed today. Williams is being held at the Hotel de Carter on Courthouse Hill.

Luisella and Brown of Rough and Ready who were charged with high grading by the state mineralogist's office, were found not guilty in a San Francisco court last week. Attorney E. H. Armstrong appeared in their behalf.

The motion made by Attorney E. H. Armstrong for his client, Western Mines Consolidated, for a new trial in the mortgage foreclosure proceedings brought by A. R. Archibald et al, was denied by Judge Raglan Tuttle in superior court this morning. W. E. Wright is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Grass Valley Lions Club was formally instituted Saturday night with a large attendance. The charter was presented by State Controller Ray L. Riley of Sacramento, Second Vice President of Lions International.

Earl E. Armstrong of Oakland spent the weekend at the W. L. Williamson home.

MRS GOVE CELIO IS CHARMING HOSTESS

Mrs. Gove C. Celio entertained the members of the Junior Saturday Bridge Club and a number of invited guests at the National Hotel on Saturday afternoon at a charmingly appointed function. Pink hawthorne and spring flowers in profusion made a beautiful picture. Prize winners were Mesdames Clayton Bennett, Horace Curnow, J. A. Curnow at bridge while at mah jongg Mrs. W. P. Sawyer won first honors. Miss Minnie Brand at the piano and Mrs. Celio in vocal selections proved attractive features.

James Grimes of Oakland stopped over here on his way home from a visit at his mine near Camptonville.

Earl Raymond was in town Thursday from Bowman's Dam.

ACCIDENT ENDS FATALLY MINING ENGINEER BRAY

The Dead

C. W. BRAY, mining engineer of Richmond.

The Injured

Thomas L. Woodruff, 1015 Euclid Ave., Berkeley, connected with the Oakland Development Co., driver of death car. Crushed head and shoulder, broken ribs, internal injuries. At Nevada City Sanitarium.

J. B. Moore, 617 Aileen St., Berkeley. Leg broken and internal injuries. At Grass Valley hospital.

C. H. Barkdull, 2005 east 21st St., Oakland, mining engineer. Contusions about head and body. Injuries apparently not serious.

While driving back to Oakland after a short inspection trip to the Indian Hill mine near Goodyears Bar dam yesterday afternoon, a closed car piloted by Thomas L. Woodruff plunged off the highway at the top of the South Yuba grade four miles south of North San Juan about 4 o'clock. Bray who was riding on the front seat with Woodruff was killed while the other members of the party were all injured. A broken steering gear was presumed to be responsible as Barkdull noticed Woodruff frantically twisting the steering wheel as the car hit the turn at a speed of about 25 miles an hour, plunged over the bank, turned over a number of times and landed in a creek bed several hundred feet below.

All were thrown clear of the car when the top was wrecked which probably saved the other three members of the party. Bray was killed when a boulder loosened by the car's descent, struck him in the back of the head as he lay in the creek bed. Barkdull who was the first one to recover consciousness, lifted the boulder from Bray's body and the machine wreckage from one of the others then struggled up the bank to summon assistance. Eban Smart and Fred Burns of Grass Valley and several other parties gave assistance and brought the wounded men to Uncle Tom's Cabin where help was summoned and Coroner T. M. Harris was notified.

Barkdull gave a coherent account of the accident to The Nugget last night and returned home this morning. The men being largely strangers to each other made identification difficult and by a process of elimination Coroner Harris arrived at Bray's identity. Mrs. Woodruff was first notified at her home that it was her husband who had been killed but the glad news was soon sent that the information was incorrect.

REV. RAMM TO CONDUCT SERVICES AT CAMPTONVILLE

Rev. Monsgr. Charles A. Ramm of San Francisco will conduct services in the Odd Fellows Hall at Camptonville next Sunday morning at 9 a. m. for the Catholic communicants of that section. Mass will be celebrated.

JOHN W. GODFREY OF CAMPTONVILLE PASSES

CAMPTONVILLE, May 19,—John William Godfrey passed away at six o'clock Thursday morning at the Johnson Emergency Hospital at Yuba City, after an illness of two weeks, preceded by ill health of several months, bronchial and asthmatic trouble being the cause of his death.

John William Godfrey was born at Oak Valley five miles north of this place on January 5, 1874, making him 54 years of age at the time of his death. He spenth is entire life in this section, working most of the time in the mining industry. He was well liked by all who knew him, and whether in work or sport always displayed characteristics of a sterling man. He held a prominent and familiar place in the life of the little community, and his death is mourned by all who knew him, as a vacancy is left which will not be easily filled, and, although gone, the memory of his virtues will remain in the hearts of those left behind for all time.

Davis and Son of Sacramento who are subdividin rpgoperty on Deer and Mosquito creeks below the Texas mine are making preparations to commence active operations at an early date. The name "Hide-Away" will be used for the site, and the misnomer Mosquito is going into the discard.

LEGAL NOTICE

SUMMONS
No. 5613

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF NEVADA.

GEORGE W. COOPER, Plaintifl vs A. R. WADSWORTH, FRANCIS STEVENS, JANE STEVENS, his wife, and also all other persons unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint, adverse to plaintiff's ownership, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto, Defendants.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Nevada, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Nevada.

NILON & NILON,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA SEND GREETING TO A. R. WADSWORTH, FRANCIS STEVENS, JANE STEVENS, his wife, and also all other persons unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's ownership, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto, Defendants:

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Nevada, within ten (10) days after service on you of this Summons—if served within this County; or within thirty (30) days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unles you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or he will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

The object of the action is to determine all and every claim, estate, right, title, lien or interest in the real property hereinafter described, adverse to plaintiff's ownership, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto; to obtain a judgment of this Court adjudging and decreeing that plaintiff is now, and has, by himself and his predecessors in interest been, in the actual, exclusive and adverse possession of said real property continuously for the period of twenty (20) years immediately prior to the filing of the complaint in this action, claiming to own the same in fee against the whole world; and that plaintiff has paid all taxes of every kind levied or assessed against said real property during the period of five (5) years next preceding the filing of the complaint aforesaid; that plaintiff is the owner and entitled to the possession of said real property, and that all claims of said defendants thereto are without right, and that they have not, nor has any, or either of them, any right, title, estate or interest in said real property, or any portion thereof.

The real property affected by this action and hereinbefore referred to is described as follows:

All that certain real property situate, lying and being in the City of Nevada, County of Nevada, State of California, and particularly described as follows:

Lot Number Seven (7) of Block Number Twenty-five (25) of the City of Nevada, as said lot and block are designated upon the offcial map of said City of Nevada made by H. S. Bradley in the year 1869.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Nevada, this 22d day of March, 1928.

NEW QUARTZ MILL PUT OUT BY SISKIYOU MEN

It will be of more than passing interest to mining men to know that there is a new type of quartz mill on the market, following the installation of two mills in Siskiyou count. They are said to be successful as well as economical.

They are of the drum type, relined on the inside with steel reliners. The crushing is done by loose rods inside the drums. The feed is through the trunnion bearing at one end of the mill while the discharge isth rough classifier heads with screens which automatically return the coarse material for recrushing. The discharge is on one end for the mills of two ton capacity while there is a double discharge fort hose of the larger type. Amalgamation is used on the inside of the mill with regulation plates below the mill to recover the amalgam.

PINK BENTONITE FOUND NORTH OF RANDSBURG

Samples of pink clay brought to Randsburg last week from the new discovery near Terrace Siding, 19 miles north of Randsburg, has caused almost a stampede to the new discovery.

Dave Staats, old time metal prospector of the great desert, in looking over Black Mountain district, found an outcropping of what appeared to be the much wanted filtering clay so earnestly sought for by the leading oil companies. Samples first brought in did not leave much of an impression and the prospects of finding a stake looked far off. J. S. Mahood of Osdick after listening to Dave's hard luck tale, offered to provide the grubstake, whereupon Staats lost no time in going back, working steadilyand alone. He trenched and exposed 60 feet of clay matter seven feet of this big ledge showing pink bentonite. Returning to Osdick, a camp outfit and a crew were sent out with Staats.

MINING IS BACKBONE OF PROGRESS SAID RHODES

Cecil Rhodes, famous English statesman and colonizer, built the empire of South Africa on the foundation of mining. Here is what he said of mining and its influence on humanity:

"Mining has been the foundation o fthe world's wealth from the beginning of time. The governments rich in minerals have always been the richest and strongest governments on the earth.

"Mining is the only business o this earth that increases the wealth of the world without infringing on the rights of others. The man who produces gold, silver and copper is creating the raw material of money; every strike of his pick adds to the wealth of every man's business in the world."

As Small Boy Saw It

It is well to be sure that your child knows wherein he lies, otherwise your punishment or your admonition is likely to go astray. Ellis Parker Butler told a charming story illustrating this in the Delineator. A child was being asked where a piece of cake had gone. To the amazement of his questioner he replied with a tale about a "nocernoss" that had flown in at the window and eaten the cake. His father, coming home that night, took matters into his own hands; he lectured the child on the sin of telling stories that were not true, and accompanied this lecture with a dissertation on the habits and limitations of rhinoceroses. The child was then spanked and put bed. Presently the father climbed the stairs to see whether his little boy was repentant. "Why were you spanked?" he asked. "'Cauce nocerosses can't fly," came the answer.

Failed to Appreciate "Alice in Wonderland"

All those who have been famous in imaginative work for children were children—spoilt children—themselves, asserts Harry Furniss in his book, "Some Victorian Women." Mr. Furniss, a famous Punch artist, says that "Hans Andersen cried at the table if he was not helped first, and was not given more jam on his bread than any one else."

Lewis Carroll's childishness was of a different kind; his was pure literary egotism.

"It was his habit to watch the children of well-to-do people on the sands at Eastbourne and then, without disclosing his identity, present those he admired most with a copy of 'Alice in Wonderland.' Subsequently he formally called on the parents. Then came the moment at which the Rev. C. L. Dodgson informed the grateful parent that he was 'Lewis Carroll,' the effect being magical and Carroll's delight immense.

"However, one day, the dignified lady whose little daughter had been the recipient of a beautifully bound copy of 'Alice,' by the strange, uncanny clergyman, remarked:

"'Oh, you are the writer of those rubbishy books, are you? Well, perhaps you may like to know that I threw the book you gave my daughter away—I certainly could never dream of her poisoning her mind with such as that!"

Mother Sheep Must Have Jumped Fence

There is a common expression, "stupid as a sheep," but this is not entirely just, for the sheep displays surprising intelligence when its maternal instincts are aroused.

Recently a shepherd was startled by the sudden and frantic bleating of a sheep outside his door. Going outside, he found one of his own flock, which immediately led him to the grazing pasture.

Here he had to open the gate to let the sheep into the field.

She led him to a spot where he found her lamb with its head firmly wedged in a hedge. It was apparent that she had made frantic attempts to free her baby, and failing had gone to the shepherd's home for help.

He freed the lamb, none the worse for its adventure, but has never discovered how the mother sheep got out of the field, which was so well fenced that at no point could he find a gap.—London Tit-Bits.

"Adventure" Only for Man Physically Fit

I find that most people think of "adventure" when the word "exploration" is used. To the explorer, however, adventure is merely an unwelcome interruption of his serious labors. He is looking, not for thriils, but for facts about the unknown. Often his search is a race with time against starvation. To him, an adventure is merely a bit of bad planning, brought to light by the test of trial. Or it is unfortunate exemplification of the fact that no man can grasp all the possibilities of the future.

Serious work in exploration calls for as definite and as rigorous professional preparation as does success in any other serious work in life. The first qualification of an explorer is a sound and trained body. Exploring involves the hardest kind of physical exertion, and the capacity to endure such exertion under stress both for long periods of sustained endeavor and in the trying moments of emergency. How preposterous, then, it is for men who have lived at desks to maturity suddenly to attempt these arduous enterprises! — Roald Amundsen in World's Work.

NEW BUILDING IS NOW POSSIBLE FOR ST. PATRICK'S ORPHANAGE

Leading Business Men of Nevada County Unanimously Adopt Plan Rebuilding and Financing Grass Valley Orphanage Following a Thorough Investigation of the Plan Adopted in Other States

GENERAL CHAIRMAN—George L. Jones.

NEVADA CITY COMMITTEE—S. Lee Leiter, Chairman;; F. F. Cassidy, P. G. Scadden, George L. Jones, T. W. Richards.

GRASS VALLEY COMMITTEE—W. D. Paynter, Chairman; A. H. Mooser, J. E. Gooding, C. E. Clinch, Ray Pengally.

Every public spirited citizen is expected to join with the above committees in assuring the rebuilding of St. Patricks in Nevada County. The plan as adopted is not a tax nor a contribution on anyone joining in this movement. It is a concerted movement on the part of the people of Northern California including the entire Diocese of Sacramento. The plan is underwritten by a substantial old-line legal reserve Life Insurance Company and will eliminate all drives for funds to rebuild St. Patricks.

You do not give anything.

How You Can Help Build St. Patrick's Orphanage

You lend your support by taking a combined life and savings policy and you get fullv alue received.

The company will reserve and pay on every $1,000 policy the sum of $10.30 annually for fifteen consecutive years—that you keep your policy in force, without in the least impairing the value to you or your beneficiary.

There will be many policies taken by public spirited citizens in Nevada County and the committee urge you to act promptly and notify any one of them if you desire to join in this movement of local interest, and a representative will call and give you full details.

This is your opportunity to testify as to your desire in rebuilding and assuring the retention of this most worthy institution in Nevada County.

Long-Buried Treasure Still Lures Seekers

Pacioma canyon, in the mountains east of San Fernando mission in California, contains, according to tradition, a great chest of gold beaten into the form of plates and platters for altar and dining service. Some estimates place the value of the treasure at $1,000,000. Pacioma canyon is wild and rugged but men have time and again tried to find the treasure. Aided by a map on a tanned sheepskin, sketched with a hot metal point by a San Fernando padre himself, the seekers have been unable to find the chest. If tradition is true history, the chest contains the largest assortment of gold plates and platters ever beaten into form by Indian smiths of any of the missions in the Californias, either below or above the Mexican boundary line. Rojerio Rocha, gold and silver smith at the San Fernando mission, not only helped beat the plates and platters, but he was one of the trusted party that hid the golden utensils when word came that United States soldiers were marching down the San Fernando valley. A few weeks before Rocha died he took from his old wooden chest a piece of tanned sheepskin, bearing traces of a hot metal point, and told one of his Indian friends it was a map showing the location of the buried gold. However, efforts to follow the map to the chest of gold have been futile.—Lannes McPhetridge, in the National Republic.

Nightingale No Right on Poetic Pedestal?

The poets have the nightingale all wrong. He is the noisiest, most inconsiderate, most obstreperous and jaunty bird in the whole kingdom of birds, H. D. Lawrence, writing in the Forum, asserts. How John Keats managed to begin his "Ode to a Nightingale" with: "My heart aches, and a drowsy numbness pains my senses," is a mystery to anybody acquainted with the actual song. You hear the nightingale silverily shouting: "What? What? What, John? Heartaches and a drowsy numbness pains? tra-lala! tri-li-lilylilylilylily."

And why the Greeks said he, or she, was sobbing in a bush for a lost lover, again I don't know.

Because, in sober fact, the nightingale sings with a ringing, pinching vividness and a pristine assertiveness that makes a mere man stand still.

The nightingale is the most unsad thing in the world; even more unsad than the peacock full of gleam. He has nothing to be sad about. He feels perfect with life.

Finland's Claims to Fame

Finland is a land of superlatives. It is the northernmost republic on the globe; it was the first country to give absolute equal suffrage to women; it was the first nation to adopt prohibition; it has the greatest forest area of any country in Europe; it boasts the largest paper mill in Europe; it has the greatest number of lakes of any country—35,600—and it boasts of not merely a "thousand islands" but 20,000, says a travel writer in the Pathfinder Magazine. Finland for six centuries was under the sway of Sweden; then for a century it was dominated by Russia and finally, in 1918, the country attained its long cherished ambition and was formed into a republic. The government is headed by a President who is chosen for six years, and the laws are made by a diet consisting of a single chamber.

Humorous Definitions

London schoolboys either have an unusual penchant for what are generally known as howlers, or else the London schools have an unusually astute publicity agent. Anyway, says a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, not the least of the humor that enlivens the London press arises in that way. The latest group of juvenile atrocities is:

Cistercian: A garden plant with green leaves.

Macadam: The first Scotchman.

Boadicea: A dangerous serpent found in ancient Britain.

Theodolite: A saint mentioned in a poem by Browning.

Artisan: A kind of well.

Hoped He Was an M. D.

A young golfer on the lookout for a game was introduced by the caddie master to Doctor Jones, another player who had no partner. Doctor Jones was a quiet, serious man, who played an unemotional game. All went well until the third hole, where the younger player found that a perfectly good drive had ended unsuspectedly in a shockingly difficult bunker. He glared at the ball, his face becoming more and more red. Then he turned to his opponent.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but before I play this accursed shot, do you mind telling me whether you are a D. D. or an M. D.?"

Early Taverns Primitive

In some taverns in early Colonial days there were several beds in a room and, if all were occupied, the traveler would, without ceremony, lie down by the side of its occupant and share the bed with him witnout care or curiosity as to the identity of his casual bed fellow.

If he should be so fortunate as to find an empty bed, and should ask for clean sheets, he would be looked upon as an aristocrat or otherwise abnormal person; for sheets were changed only at regular periods, more or less distant from each other, the almanac being the only guide.

Police Dogs Quickly Showed Their Quality

The first city in the world to install dogs as regular members of the police force was the quaint old city of Ghent, in Belgium. Years ago the chief of police of Ghent pointed out to the governing authorities that a cleverly trained dog could run down a criminal more surely and quickly than any two-legged policeman, and that it was better to risk a dog's life rather than that of an officer. The idea found favor and the chief was commissioned to get his dogs. This he did and trained them to distinguish between skulking criminals and the ordinary reputable citizen, who walks by day. Special kennels were built in the police stations, and collars, coats and muzzles were provided in the way of uniforms. The dogs proved particularly useful to the police at night and saved much running backwards and forwards. These dogs are so highly intelligent that they refuse food from strangers, bring home lost children, etc. Many of them are so anxious to get a "case" that they will follow and look askance at a person of suspicious appearance. The idea proved such a success that other municipalities followed the example of Ghent.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Taverns Played Big Part in Social Life

Taverns in the Colonial days and in the early days of the republic, especially in New England, were the most important part of all American social institutions. In addition to furnishing rest and refreshment for the traveler the tavern was a town hall, a court of justice, an auction room, a dancing assembly and sometimes a church and a playhouse.

In New England, until the repeal of the anti-theatrical law in 1783, play acting was rigorously banned as the most wicked of all the contrivances of the devil for destroying the virtue of the world.

However, from the motives of paternal kindness toward the populace, and in order that they should not be wholly without amusing diversions, pillories, stocks, whipping posts and bilboes were always set up near taverns so that when petty offenders were subjected to the operations of these pleasant devices the guests or loiterers of the taverns could hear the groans and cries of the victims while sipping their flip, punch or sack. Thus did our pious forbears furnish free moral entertainment of a realistic character, the very antithesis of play-acting.—Boston Globe.

Art Nourished by Nature

I now understand why the Greeks were such great poets; and above all, I can account, it seems to me, for the harmony, the unity, the perfection, the uniform excellence of all their works of art. They lived in a perpetual commerce with external nature, and nourished themselves upon the spirit of its forms. Their theaters were all open to the mountains or the sky. Their columns, the ideal type of a sacred forest, with its roof of interwoven tracery, admitted the light and wind. The odor and the freshness of the country penetrated the cities. Their temples were mostly unparthaic; and the flying clouds, the stars and the deep sky were seen above.—Shelley, in a letter to Peacock

Bermuda Relies on Onion

The soil of Bermuda is particularly adapted to the cultivation of the onion. It consists largely of powdered coral and contains the elements which are most congenial to the onion. Moreover, the situation and climate of the island are such that the farmers are able to put their early onions into the markets of American cities at a time when they are peculiarly welcome.

As a result Bermuda has become virtually one great onion patch. The happiness of the island may be said to hang upon the onion. When there is a good crop and prices are good, the people are happy; when the crop fails, or prices are low, they are correspondingly depressed.

"Raven" Written in Street?

"The Raven," Edgar Allan Poe's immortal poem, was scribbled on the edges of a theater program as the author stood under a street light at Bleecker street and Broadway, New York, at midnight in the rain and sleet of a stormy winter night. At least, this was the contention of the late Dr. Cornelius Mathews, devoted friend of Poe's. The story was recalled recently when the only autographed copy of the poem passed from a private owner to the hands of collectors. Manuscript experts say there is no other American literary document of comparable value outside the libraries; its worth is estimated at $50,000.

Gained on the Diet

"What have you been doing to yourself? You look different somehow," said one friend to another.

"Why, I have been dieting," replied the second friend. "For two months I have cut out all fats, white bread, most sweets—the regulation reducing diet, you know."

"You brave thing, and how much flesh have you taken off?" asked the first friend.

The second woman laughed a chagrined laugh. "I have gained just four pounds on that reducing diet," she said.—Springfield Union.

ORDINANCE No. 202

AN ORDINANCE FIXING THE COMPENSATION OF CITY ATTORNEY.

The City Council of the City of Nevada does hereby ordain as follows:

SECTION 1

The City Attorney shall receive as compensation for his services as such attorney the following:

1. A retainer of Two Hundred ($200.00) dollars per annum, payable in two equal installments in the months of May and November of each year. This sum shall be in full for drafting ordinances and resolutions, drawing contracts, conveyancing of every description, as well as for all advice given the city council, or any member thereof, or any other official of the city, on matters relating to city affairs.

2. For all other services rendered at the request of the city council such sums as agreed upon with said council.

SECTION 2

All ordinances, or parts of ordinances, in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION 3

This ordinance before going into effect shall be published once, with the ayes and nays, in the Nevada City Nugget.

The foregoing ordinance was enacted by the City Council of the City of Nevada, at a regular meeting thereof, held this 17th day of May, 1928, and was passed by the following vote:

Aye—Trustees Bennetts, Armstrong, Murchie, Seaman, Holmes.
Nay—None.
Absent—None.

A. M. HOLMES,
President of the Board of Trustees and Mayor of the City of Nevada.
Attest:

GEO. H. CALANAN,
City Clerk.

READJUSTMENTS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

WE ARE, as I have often remarked, the slaves of habit, good or bad. The older we are the more difficult it is to readjust ourselves to new conditions, to take on new friends, and to be happy in new surroundings. Winter or summer, at work or during vacation, I awake at about the same hour, and try as I will I cannot long be contented. I must be up and at something. It is a habit I learned, with difficulty I must admit, long, long ago on the farm, but, having learned it, I am a slave to it. I want the same things for breakfast. Wherever I am, I am a little uneasy unless I am in my own chair. I am contented only when I have my old friends about me. And yet I know full well that one should learn to be and to do otherwise, for sooner or later readjustments will have to be made. Old friends will have to go; new conditions will arise; and the wise man will learn to make readjustments early in life.

Wilder is a bachelor who has always had means enough to live as he desired. He has always intended to marry, but he is past fifty now and he is afraid of the readjustments which he knows will be inevitable in his life if he takes on the responsibilities of married life. She might want breakfast earlier or later than he has been accustomed to; she might not find his friends as agreeable as he finds them; she might even appropriate his favorite chair or insist upon its being replaced by a more artistic though less comfortable one. There is too much risk, and he will very likely drift on and die as he now is. Selfish you will say he is, but his habits are formed.

Gregory, though he is an old man, has just lost his mother. During his seventy years he has scarcely been separated from her. He has a wife and a family of his own and is a self-reliant and successful man, but there has always been mother to go to when he was depressed or in trouble or felt the need of sympathy. He is as completely lost as a child without her. He wanders about like a stranger in a strange land not knowing what to do or where to go. He knew that the change must come, sooner or later, but he had not prepared himself for it.

Fuller and his wife were inseparable. He was a shy man, who held himself in the background in social affairs. No one else could bring him out or put him in as good light as she could do. He quite sparkled when she was about, but without her he was silent, ill-at-ease, and not at his best. She died suddenly when still a young woman, but he could not make the readjustments necessary to a life without her. He was like a vessel drifting helplessly in a heavy sea. He followed her in a few months. He had never learned to make readjustments.

Who Invented Ice Cream?

Ice cream provides the historian with ample opportunity for research, for of the origin of this delicacy little is surely known. According to the encyclopedias, ice cream was introduced into France from Italy in 1550. Germany and England also were enjoying it at about the same time, but whence it originally came is a matter of conjecture. In 1786, it is said, the first advertisement for ice cream appeared in the United States. And Mrs. Alexander Hamilton is reported to have been our first hostess to serve her guests this frozen dessert.

ORDINANCE No. 203

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THEATERS, SHOWS, VAUDEVILLES, ROAD SHOWS, MOVIE PICTURE SHOWS, PERFORMANCES, CONCERTS, CARNIVALS, ENTERTAINMENTS AND EXHIBITIONS, PROVIDING FOR THE LEVY AND COLLECTION OF A LICENSE TAX ON SUCH BUSINESSES, AND PRESCRIBING PENALTIES FOR ITS VIOLATION.

The City Council of the City of Nevada does hereby ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, to conduct, manage, operate, or carry on, within said City of Nevada, any theater, show, vaudeville, road show, movie picture show, performance, concert, carnival, entertainment, or exhibition, or to assist therein, without first securing a license therefor and paying the license tax therefor to the City Clerk of said City, as hereinafter specified.

SECTION 2. Upon application for any such license, said Clerk will thoroughly investigate the character and quality of the show, theater, carnival, vaudeville, road show, movie picture show, performance, concert, entertainment, or exhibition proposed to be conducted under such license, and in the event he finds the same is immoral, fraudulent, or so inferior in quality that, in his judgment, the same is unsuited to the moral welfare of its prospective patrons, he shall forthwith deny such application. In the event, after such investigation, said City Clerk shall find that the same is unobjectionable in the respects aforesaid, he shall forthwith collect from the applicant a license tax at the rates hereinafter specified and issue a proper license for the period covered by such tax; but shall not, in any event, issue any such license for a period of less than one quarter year nor refund or rebate any portion of such license tax, except as hereinafter provided. Said city council shall have and retain power to review the action of said clerk with respect to any such application, and may, in its discretion, revoke any such license upon refunding to applicant or licensee the unearned, unexpired portion of such license tax.

Such rates of tax shall be, and they are hereby fixed, as follows:

(1st) For any permanent and regularly maintained theater or movie picture show, such license tax shall be collected at the rate of eight ($8.00) dollars per quarter year, and

(2d) For any show, vaudeville, road show, performance, concert, carnival, entertainment or exhibition, conducted outside of a regularly licensed theater or movie picture show, paying the license tax at the rate last aforesaid, such license tax shall be collected at the rate of Two Hundred ($200.00) dollars per quarter year.

SECTION 3. Any person who, as principal or agent shall conduct, manage, operate or carry on, in said City of Nevada, any business specified in Section 1 of this ordinance, or assist therein, or cause the same to be done, in violation of the provisions of this ordinance, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding $300.00, or by imprisonment in the city jail not exceeding three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SECTION 4. This ordinance shall not apply to any show, theater, vaudeville, road show, movie picture show, performance, concert, entertainment or exhibition which is not conducted for profit, or which is conducted for religious, charitable, or educational purposes in such manner as to exempt the same and its property from taxation under the laws of the state of California, or which is conducted under special authority granted by said City Council for strictly public or muncipal purposes; but nothing herein shall authorize, nor be deemed to authorize, the doing of any act prohibited by law or by other ordinance of this city.

SECTION 5. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION 6. This ordinance shall, before going into effect, be published in the Nevada City Nugget, with the ayes and nays, at least once.

The foregoing ordinance was enacted by the City Council of the City of Nevada, at a regular meeting thereof, held this 17th day of May, 1928, and was passed by the following vote:

VACATION WITHOUT MONEY WORRY

A mental rest is just as essential to a successful vacation as to rest the body. If one is worried as to how much the outing is going to cost, or is thinking about scrimping when the time comes to go to work again, then the value of the vacation is largely lost, and one might just as well stay at home.

To overcome this possible mental condition, preparations should be made in advance. Setting aside a sum each month to take care of the annual outing will bring pleasure in many ways. Start a special vacation account right away and then your money will be ready for you when you are ready to go.

MR. WISKERS' GOATS

Now, altogether boys Hip! Hip! Huzzah! the bond issue for the $2,592,000 has carried 5 to 1. It was a glorious victory, according to Mr. Wisker's way of looking at it, and proves that the instinct—I mean common sense of the people can be depended on for the right decision in time of crisis.

Well, I guess that's right, although naturally those who voted for the additional bonds didn't smile while they were doing it for it was not a matter of choice; they were between the devil and the deep blue sea and had either to do that or submit to a whopper of a land tax. This club was held over them at the polls after they had been initiated with the idea that they would have money in the treasury instead of being compelled to heap further indebtedness on their lands; consequently they are in no mood at this time to be felicitated on their good judgement and the less they are slapped on the back the better humor they will be in.

It is evident that Mr. Tibbetts budget for the spending of this money makes no provision for the construction of the Scotts Flat dam. It is very difficult for the ordinary layman to assume the point of view taken by those in charge of the Deer Creek diversion plan. A concrete dam costing in the neighborhood of $60,000 is being completed a mile and a quarter down stream from the Scotts Flat site for the stated purpose of saving that much canal. It has comparatively little storage capacity, and why this money was not spent where it would be of benefit to the Scotts Flat storage reservoir is beyond comprehension, particularly because Scotts Flat, with a 168 foot dam will store almost 75,000 acre feet, or almost as much as Bowman.

Extending from Deer Creek to Wolf Creek, Nevada county will now have the longest lake, outside of Clear Lake and Tahoe, in the state of California; it will be 9 miles long and navigable for small craft for its entire distance. Schoolboys will have to brush up on their geography a little.

Mr. Tibbetts calls it a canal, or conduit, but its grade is so flat that the water does not know which way to run and most of it either sinks into the loose soil or evaporates. The earth portion of this canal has a grade of about 16 inches to the mile. It is 8 feet wide on the bottom, 16 feet on top and about 4 feet deep and, as the country which it traverses is notorious for seepage it will be greatly efficient on this score since it has been thoroughly shaken up by blasting during construction.

The landholders living under the lake are intelligently aware of this fact and are busy cultivating and planting in gleeful anticipation of the free sub-irrigation that is to be donated to them, as soon as the water is turned in—they will not be disappointed.

The metal flumes are 7½ feet wide and are supported by bents 16 feet apart with their feet placed upon small concrete blocks about 16 inches square on the bottom.

As the water alone in the filled flume will weigh ten tons to each bent; it will be the duty of each small block to support 5 tons plus the weight of the flume. Several of these foundation blocks were almost afloat, during the recent rains, and had there been any water in the flumes they would have sunk out of sight.

It seems as though it is not in accordance with NID engineering to give canals any more grade than can be helped, the modern idea being to run your canals flat so as to get all the land possible under irrigation—even though you lose half your water in doing so.

There is an old canal at Town Talk, heading in Deer Creek, which the old timers abandoned, it is said, because it did not have grade enough They were not up to date, but they believed in getting their water down to where it wasn't all lost in transit. so they gave their canals generally about 10 to 13 feet to the mile.

This not only proved efficient in preventing snow blockades in winter but it had the big advantage of saving in the cost of construction. A canal on a grade of 13 feet to the mile would be less than half the size of the present Deer Creek canal, would carry the same amount of water, would cost but half as much and would be incomparably more efficient. Mr. Tibbetts may add some flashboards later on the upper portion of this canal on account of some slight error in carrying capacity, but he will never have to add any on the lower portions.

How absurd, you say. But not so at all. Her Electric Range with its automatic time and temperature controls is doing the cooking automatically, while she is away from the kitchen.

The dinner placed in the cold oven at one o'clock starts to cook at four. The temperature control keeps the oven heat just right. The current will turn off at six. All this is done electrically, while she is playing cards, motoring or shopping.

Would you like to have the meals cooked while you're away? Over thirty thousand California women let the Electric Range do this for them. Our representative will gladly tell you about the modern electrical way of cooking.
